ABOUT TEXAS GUADALOOP

WHAT IS A HYPERLOOP?

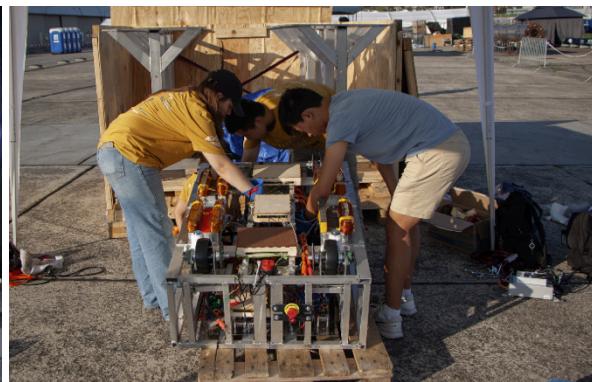

A hyperloop is a revolutionary fully electric transportation system that reaches blistering speeds of almost 700 MPH—nearly three times faster than the Shanghai bullet trains—by traveling through a vacuum to reduce air resistance and friction. Its implementation can reduce the 3-4-hour commute from Austin to Dallas to merely 25 minutes, without combusting fossil fuels.

WHO ARE WE: PROBLEM SOLVERS MAKING HYPERLOOP A REALITY

Founded in 2016 with a vision to change the world, Texas Guadaloop is a student-led Research & Development organization at The University of Texas at Austin. We unite the brightest student minds in a dynamic, startup-type environment with a singular goal: to advance cutting-edge transportation technology. Our multidisciplinary team boasts talents from diverse fields, including engineering, business, computer science, economics, math, physics, and film.

Our mission extends beyond theory. We have designed, built, tested, and showcased award-winning, electrically propelled hyperloop pods worldwide. Each year, we are committed to pushing the boundaries of transportation, making it faster, more scalable, and more sustainable.

We not only focus on hyperloop research and development to challenge the conventions of modern transportation but also compete globally in competitions with our in-house developed prototypes. Unique to many student hyperloop teams, we emphasize in-house manufacturing, which both cultivates an expansive skillset within our engineers and maximizes cost-effectiveness. Through every iteration, Guadaloop's solution emerges as an energy-efficient and cost-effective alternative for moving both goods and people.

OUR TEAM
